PUASS00095 Participate in a Recovery Team

About the program

This skillset combines three units of competency. It involves the skills and knowledge required to:

PUARCV001 Provide psychological first aid

Provide emotional and physical support and practical assistance, addressing the immediate needs of an individual who is in distress. Preparing to engage in psychological first aid, identifying distress reactions after a significant event, determining who needs support and providing that support, maintaining self-care and concluding the support.

PUARCV002 Provide relief and recovery services to disaster-affected communities

Work as a team member during relief and ongoing recovery operations. Support relief and recovery operations as part of a team, assisting disaster-affected individuals through outreach, evacuation, or recovery centres.

PUARCV003 Work in a recovery context

Work with disaster-affected individuals and communities as part of recovery. It includes preparing to work in a recovery environment, confirming the context of recovery, applying the principles of disaster recovery, confirming recovery environments and supporting effective communication processes with disaster-affected individuals and communities. It is not intended to assess performance of specific recovery roles.

Delivery options

Individual students can complete this skillset self-paced supported by online resources and a virtual 1-1 tutorial for each unit of study.

A group option for completion of this skillset is also available to organisations. The skillset can be run using a combination of face-to-face or virtual workshops and self-paced study before and after the workshops. Excluding individual work time and any virtual introduction kick-off session, this usually means for both virtual and onsite courses:

- virtual – 8 virtual half day sessions
- onsite – approx. 4 full day session

About ACIM Solutions

Our specialties

ACIM Solutions is a reputable Registered Training Organisation with a long history of working with organisations across Australia, particularly government and the emergency management sector.

Our nationally accredited scope focuses on investigation, compliance and emergency management programs at the Certificate IV, Diploma level and Advanced Diploma level. Our short course workshops complement these qualifications with a range of staff development options for those working in regulatory environments.

We also provide policy and procedure reviews, conduct independent debriefs and post incident processes following significant events.

Our team

The ACIM Solutions team come from a range of locations around Australia. They are all highly experienced and well-respected individuals in their area of expertise. The team takes pride in maintaining their industry currency and have the skills to transfer concepts and examples to a wide range of organisational settings.

From administration to learning support, our team works to encourage students in their training. We work with individuals and groups to help ensure everyone is included, adequately supported, and can be successful in their goals.

Our approach

For individual students undertaking qualifications we create customised learning plans that help recognise background experience and future goals. All individual students completing single units or qualifications self-paced are provided with 1-1 virtual tutorials to support their learning completion of assessments. We have a student support officer to ensure no-one is overlooked.

We meet with clients to contextualise all our organisational programs to ensure the content aligns with jurisdictional and organisational requirements. We are very flexible in the delivery format for programs to best suit the needs of the organisation and students.

All programs are designed with best practices for adult education, and we love to incorporate contemporary case studies, collaborative learning approaches and active learning strategies as much as possible.

Programs can be delivered face to face around Australia, virtually, self-paced or in a blended model of any of the these.
